Restriction

This application contains claims directed to more than one species of the generic invention. These species are deemed to lack unity of invention because they are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

The species are as follows:

Group I directed to a species of contact lens series or method of forming a contact lens series having a given diameter dimension but mutually different optical characteristics in the optical zone and a shape of an area extending a predetermined width in a diametrical direction of a peripheral portion identical for each lens and differing shapes of the front surface optical zones.

Group II directed to a species of contact lens series or method of forming a contact lens series having the diameter of the front surface optical zone smaller than the diameter of the back surface optical zone and a first front surface peripheral zone is offset to the back surface optical zone and a first peripheral zone of generally constant thickness and a second front surface peripheral zone and a back surface peripheral zone forming a second peripheral zone of decreasing thickness.

Group III, directed to a species of contact lens series or method of forming a contact lens series in which an entirety of the lens back surface and an area extending over a predetermined diametrical width of at least an outer peripheral portion of a front surface peripheral zone are shaped by molding and a front surface optical zone is shaped by cutting.

Art Unit: 2873

The claims are deemed to correspond to the species listed above in the following manner:

Group I, claims 1-14, and 16.

Group II, claim 15.

Group III, claims 17-18.

The following claim(s) are generic: none.

The species listed above do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, the species lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons: the Group I claims have the special technical feature of having a given diameter dimension but mutually different optical characteristics in the optical zone and a shape of an area extending a predetermined width in a diametrical direction of a peripheral portion identical for each lens and differing shapes of the front surface optical zones. The Group II claims have the special technical feature of having the diameter of the front surface optical zone smaller than the diameter of the back surface optical zone and a first front surface peripheral zone is offset to the back surface optical zone and a first peripheral zone of generally constant thickness and a second front surface peripheral zone and a back surface peripheral zone forming a second peripheral zone of decreasing thickness. The Group III claims have the special technical feature of having an entirety of the lens back surface and an area extending over a predetermined diametrical width of at least an outer peripheral portion of a front surface peripheral zone are shaped by molding and a front surface optical zone is shaped by cutting.

Art Unit: 2873

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
